

REMINGTON RIDES INTO YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY

A Teacher's Discovery traveling exhibit of Frederic Remington's art work is or will be on display at your public library in the near future. The display consists of three silk panels that showcase Remington's view of a glorious old west. "Frederic Remington's legacy is the collection of iconic images of cowboys and scenes of the Old West as we remember them today." (Taken from promotional information)

The panels capture the color and beauty of Remington's works. Animals and men ride vividly into the patron's view and mind. Included with the art are activities that allow viewers to think about the art and art in general. Children and adults will love looking at the well-reproduced paintings.

The exhibit is currently displayed at the Sanders Public Library and will be there until May 15th. You can catch the display in the other libraries on the following dates:

Alpine Public Library -- May 18-May 25

Vernon Public Library -- May 26-May 28

Greer Memorial Library -- June 1-June 6

Concho Public Library -- June 9-June 13

St. Johns Public Library -- June 15-June 20

Round Valley Public Library -- June 22-June 27

And if this art sparks your interest, as we hope it will, don't forget that your public libraries have various books on artists from Cassatt to Van Gogh and many in between, as well as artists who painted outside of the frame.
